

CHASE MARCH DJ SERVICES

Serving the London and Sarnia areas and beyond

Chase March is dedicated to the art of deejaying. He loves the craft of putting together a mixset whether it is painstakingly produced for an album or on the fly live at a venue. A good selection of music can do more than simply entertain a crowd. It can tell a story, put a smile on someone's face, and bring a room full of people together. Music is a powerful thing.

Chase's love of music has seen him performing in his high school band, a military marching band, rap group, and as a DJ for various events. He even shares his passion for music as a school teacher where he instructs students to play brass, woodwind, percussion, and electronic instruments.

As far back as he can remember, Chase has been fascinated with turntables. At first, it was simply a medium for playing music, but he quickly learned that it could be used to manipulate sounds. Using wax paper as a slip map, he began to scratch records. He made simple cassette mixtapes by recording songs from the radio and tracks from vinyl records in his collection to tell a musical story. Drawing inspiration from his favourite hip-hop groups, he purchased a mixer, procured a second turntable, and entertained himself for hours playing songs and performing simple scratches and mixes.

Chase started a rap group with his brother, recruited a DJ, and spent the next several years focusing on writing songs, producing beats, and performing. After the group disbanded, his DJ landed on campus radio. Chase came in to guest host a few times. He interviewed artists and produced documentary segments for the show.

During this time, Chase March started working with one of the biggest online publications for hip-hop news and information. He wrote articles for the site and produced the podcast before spinning it off into a weekly radio show. Word is Bond Rap Radio airs Tuesday nights from 10:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m. on 94.9 fm Radio Western and the podcasts are available to stream or download weekly.

Chase March has provided the music for weddings, fashion shows, rap concerts, dance clubs, and more. Chase March DJ Services allows him to share his passion for music. DJing is not simply pressing buttons or playing the latest music from a Billboard chart or Spotify playlist. A talented and experienced DJ can tell a story with the musical choices he makes. He can blend and mix records so that the flow of music is constant. And he can bring a crowd of people together to enjoy a night out with music that appeals to a wide variety of tastes and ages.
